

EFFICIENT PROCUREMENT FOR MARINE AIDS TO NAVIGATION MANAGERS

SURINAME 29 JULY – 2 AUGUST 2024

BACKGROUND

- How can I write a convincing business case to purchase a new AtoN?
- What should I check for in a specification to ensure my new AtoN is fit for purpose?
- How do I balance quality and cost when choosing a supplier from a selection of tender submissions?

The answers to these questions and more are provided on the Efficient Procurement for Marine Aids to Navigation Managers course.

Understanding procurement terminology, principles and processes is essential knowledge for those procuring AtoN goods and services. AtoN professionals are not necessarily procurement experts and do not need to be, but a good understanding of procurement best practices can be extremely useful to help navigate potential procurement problems, including the consequences of a poorly written specification.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

The competencies covered in the course include:

- How to write a convincing business case for expenditure.
- The elements of a well written and fit for purpose specification.
- How to conduct a tendering exercise and appraise supplier submissions for quality and price.
- The use of standard terms and conditions and model contracts.
- How to identify whole life costs and how to incorporate them into project options appraisal.
- How to identify project risks and record them
- How procurement strategy, contract choice and risk are connected.
- Important aspects of international trading.
- The purpose of Incoterms® and why they are used.
- Contract management and project review.

The course will provide practical examples of AtoN procurement and AtoN professionals will improve specification writing and contract management skills. They will be given practical tools and information that they can apply in their everyday work. The course is interactive with exercises and lectures by guest speakers including current AtoN procurement professionals.

ATTENDEES

This course is open to all students irrespective of previous procurement experience but would be particularly suited to L1.1 AtoN certified managers, those providing AtoN administration support and AtoN suppliers.
