A nighttime photograph of a city skyline, likely Incheon, Korea. The image features several tall, modern skyscrapers with illuminated facades. The central focus is a large, dark building with a prominent, glowing blue geometric pattern (a series of interconnected lines forming a diamond shape) on its facade. To the right, another tall building is lit up with blue lights. The foreground shows a busy street with yellow light trails from cars and a large, modern, white, bowl-shaped structure. The background is filled with more city lights and a dark sky.
